

CCPIII UEA 26-28 JUNE 2013 - PUBLICATION OUTLETS

There is a good range of peer-reviewed research journals suitable for submitting papers arising out of CCP III, and several have, over the years, expressed an interest in receiving submissions from CCP events. A (non-exhaustive) list is appended below.

There is also scope for themed edited volumes. John Benjamins, Routledge/Taylor and Francis, De Gruyter Mouton, Bloomsbury Linguistics are possible outlets, and have likewise shown an interest in publishing the kind of work promoted at CCP conferences. UEA colleagues Andreas Musolff and Giulio Pagani are currently co-editing a volume with CCP II papers on Metaphor in Intercultural Communication, for example (with Fiona MacArthur, Extramadura), to be published 2014 by Bloomsbury Linguistics.

(Contacts for publication proposals for Bloomsbury: a.musolff@uea.ac.uk and g.pounds@uea.ac.uk; see also "Critical Introductions to Linguistic series: <http://www.bloomsbury.com/uk/series/continuum-critical-introductions-to-linguistics/>).

Prospective editors should check publishers' websites for information on submitting proposals for edited volumes. We are able to post calls for papers for edited volumes on the CCP III website and to advertise them at the time of the conference, but editors will have full responsibility for contacting and negotiating with publishers and for the editing and publication process (with acknowledgement of CCP III).
