CRIMINAL CONVICTION

The University has a duty of care to ensure the safety of the community at all times. All applicants are required to state whether or not they have a relevant criminal conviction.

Relevant criminal convictions are currently defined as:

- Any kind of violence including (but not limited to) threatening behaviour, offences concerning the intention to harm or offences which resulted in actual bodily harm
- Offences listed in the Sex Offenders Act 2003
- The unlawful supply of controlled drugs or substances where the conviction concerns commercial drug dealing or trafficking
- Offences involving firearms
- Offences involving arson
- Offences listed in the Terrorism Act 2006

Unless the nature of your course of study* requires us to ask questions about your entire criminal record, you do not have to declare a conviction that is classed as spent under the terms of the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974. You may wish to seek advice from Unlock who can provide specific advice in relation to applications to Higher Education.

* Courses include those in teaching, health and social work or courses involving work with children or vulnerable adults.
