

“Volunteering with Colin is richly rewarding”

VOLUNTARY
NORFOLK

“The goodwill you offer will enrich the lives of others, and the friendship and perspective they can return will enrich your own.”

Nick Emmott

2nd Year – BA Philosophy, Politics and Economics

Voluntary Norfolk

I volunteer at a local library where I work one-on-one with Colin, who I have worked with for my entire time with Voluntary Norfolk.

I became inspired to volunteer for the Digital Inclusion programme after being told about it by one of Voluntary Norfolk’s employees.

Volunteering with Colin is richly rewarding as it allows me to impart the technological knowledge that I take for granted purely out of being born and raised in a privileged background in the 21st century. Not only this, but I believe I have been able to make a positive impact in the life of someone who has had to struggle a lot more than myself. Colin and I consider each other as more than tutee and tutor – through Voluntary Norfolk we have gained friends in each other where we would otherwise probably not have met.

I would recommend volunteering to anyone who knows they can make a difference. Beyond whatever services you can contribute, the goodwill you offer will enrich the lives of others, and the friendship and perspective they can return will enrich your own.

