Welcome to the School of Art, Media and American Studies (AMA), based on UEA's main Norwich campus in and around the Arts Building and in the Sainsbury Centre for Visual Arts. The School brings together world-leading expertise in the visual arts, film and media studies and in US culture.

The School's research is recognized internationally for its excellence and our scholars shape and define their fields. Our dedication to our students ensures that you can look forward to a warm welcome and to making your own discoveries in collaboration with us.

We offer outstanding facilities. The Sainsbury Centre for the Visual Arts is home to many outstanding works of art and the campus has a media suite, where students have the opportunity to develop their creative skills. We also offer a range of study abroad opportunities across the US and in Canada, Hong Kong, Australia and New Zealand.

Our School places emphasis on small-group seminar classes, which permits quality tuition and personalized learning.

Above all, I think you will find a friendly and supportive as well as intellectually challenging learning environment here. I look forward to seeing you at UEA.

Professor Mark Jancovich

Head of the School of Art, Media and American Studies (AMA)
