

I am sorry sirs but you have lost the plot. This not a question of you being sure of impartiality it is a question of the public believing you to be impartial. With a secreteriat from Edinburgh and aclimate scientist (Boulton) who has declared that the glacias will all be gone soon and that he sees nothing wrong with the activities at UEA (last year) and who has created his own hockeystick and who's colleaques and team have failed to achive data from their papers I nor, I suspect many other people will not be convinced of your impartiality.

Stephen Richards